What We Have Lost . . .

To say that tremendous changes have taken place in the character and scope of the American government since the Democratic Party came to power 20 years ago is to say the obvious. They are the backdrop against which the campaign of 1952 is being fought. This doesn't mean that General Eisenhower is against everything that has been done during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, or that Governor Stevenson is for everything. There are, indeed, certain important areas of policy where the two candidates are pretty much in agreement. However, by the very nature of things, the General is highly critical of the philosophy of government that has obtained since 1932, while the Governor is in the position of defendant.

In a recent issue Pathfinder magazine ran an interesting article called "Freedoms We Have Lost." The subhead reads: "Campaign time highlights changes that 20 years have brought. Here are 12 examples of diminished freedom. Some of these restrictions were intended to prevent other people from encroaching on your rights. But in carrying them out, Big Government itself has encroached." In brief form, here is the gist of Pathfinder's 12 examples:

1. Government now takes, on the average, 32 percent of your earnings in taxes, which means you have lost the right to spend or save a large part of your earnings.
2. OPS price ceilings have limited your right as a consumer to determine the supply of goods by the price you offer.
3. The 40,000,000 citizens affected by the wage freeze have lost the right to determine their wages.
4. The government's allocation powers have limited your right to purchase certain materials in a free market.
5. Some 9,000,000 workers have lost the right to work without belonging to a union.

6. Selective Service has taken away the right of young men to determine their futures.

7. You have lost the right to redeem your money in gold.

8. Most workers (60,000,000) must pay 1 1/2 per cent of their wages for Social Security whether they want to or not.

9. The Secretary of Agriculture fixes the milk bill paid by 40,000,000 consumers, through his power to establish the price paid by processors to producers.

10. Because of price supports, most farmers are subject to government-directed acreage and marketing quotas.

11. Businessmen are subject to innumerable regulations, laid down by Federal commissions for trade, power, communications, interstate commerce, and so on.

12. The government has gone into tax-subsidized competition with a long list of private businesses, including banking, electric power, railroading and shipping, and the purchase and sale of farm products. The government's direct investment in such fields is more than $20,000,000,000.

Whether the loss of these rights is good or bad is for each individual to decide. The decision of the majority of our voting citizens will determine which party will be at the helm of government for the coming four years.

and Miss Marian Reynolds.

If ever there was a time to call a halt to wasteful,

Every dollar wasted in Washington or Lansing means higher taxes for you, higher costs of food and clothing, less "buying-power" in your pay envelope.

Here is why we are mad—and why you should be too. In just five short years the cost of food . . .
clothing . . . all the things you buy have gone up over 47%! The dollars you earn have dropped in value to where they buy only what 53¢ would buy in 1939.

Let an Avalanche Want Ad Sell It

SHORT STORY

No
Sale

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

"WE could sell Dusty," Sylvia said. Joe stared at her. "You don't mean that!"

Dusty thumped his tail on the floor and pricked his ears. There was, he hoped, a possibility of being taken for a walk up the slope behind the house where rabbits frequently ran and offered no end of excitement.

Sylvia laughed nervously. "Of course I don't. I was only joking. We wouldn't sell Dusty for a million dollars." She reached down and twisted one of Dusty's floppy ears around her forefinger. Dusty lolled his tongue and sighed in contentment. Next to chasing rabbits, there was nothing he liked better than having his ears twisted, unless it was hunting a glove or an old shoe or pocketbook that either Joe or Sylvia had hidden.

Joe lay awake that night and thought about what Sylvia had said. He felt guilty and ashamed, but when you haven't enough to eat and you own some property that would bring an easy thousand dollars on the open market, you can't help thinking about it.

Sylvia's aunt had given them Dusty the week before they left for Hollywood. He was seven weeks old, a pure bred Springer Spaniel, black as coal and intelligent as two ordinary human beings.

The next morning Joe decided to go down onto the boulevard. Sometimes on the boulevard he met someone he knew and would get talking and perhaps get him on something. He put Dusty on his leash and started out.

Joe turned down Vine street. Just below Selma, some children were playing on a lawn. One of them was crying. Joe stopped to see what the trouble was. A little girl had lost her rag doll. It was somewhere about, but he couldn't find it. Dusty licked the little girl's hand. She cooed happily and patted his head. The other children crowded about. Joe unsnapped Dusty's leash, held the little girl's skirt to his nose and said: "Go find it!"

Dusty let out a yip and went bounding away. Two minutes later he came back, holding in his mouth the rag doll. The little girl clapped her hands.

"Smart dog," said a voice. Joe turned. A car had stopped at the curb. A small round man with a friendly face had emerged onto the sidewalk. Joe nodded. "Pure bred Springer. They're all smart."

"Are they?" said the little man. His eyes twinkled. "Like to sell him?" Joe said nothing. He felt a queer prickling at the base of his skull. "Like to sell him?" said the man again.

"How much?" said Joe, not looking at him.

"Nine hundred."

JOE thought of Sylvia. She was probably hungry. She'd be hungrier tonight. The only alternative was city relief. A man has his pride. He remembered the hug Sylvia had given Dusty before they left. He thought of the way Dusty would sit at their toes when they were getting dressed in the morning.

"How much?" said Joe, not looking at him.

He shook his head. "No!" he said. "No. Not for twice that amount."

The round man laughed. "Then how about baring him? You, too, of course. We're making a picture that requires a cute dog who will go find things that have been hidden."

Joe threw up his head. "What?"

"Think it over," said the round man. "Pay would be $25 a day. Here's my card." He smiled. "Hope I didn't insult you with that nine hundred offer. Your dog's worth two thousand, if a cent. Never saw a pure black Springer with those lines. Be sure to look me up. If $25 doesn't suit you, we can probably talk terms."

Joe stood on the curb and watched the black limousine recede. He glanced at the card, then down at Dusty. Dusty was watching him expectantly. He wanted to walk some more. Joe slipped the card into his pocket and started up Vine street at a pace that rather surprised Dusty.

CONGRESSMAN
CHARLES E. POTTER
FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR
Republican Candidate

CHARLES E. POTTER IS A FIGHTER . . .

As a three-term member of the United States House of Representatives he has fought for Michigan and America. In World War II he fought nazism and fascism for four years, won seven awards for valor and lost both legs in combat.

His fellow Congressmen put him on the vital House Un-American Activities Committee, where he helped expose Reds in industry and government. The United States Chamber of Commerce named fighting Congressman Potter, "One of the ten outstanding young men in the United States."

Give your full support to this fighter for peace, economic honesty and reduced taxes; and against communism, foreign policies, corruption and inflation.

Socialist Labor Party has candidates for all State Offices and United States Senator while the Socialist Workers Party offers a candidate for Governor and another for United States Senator. These last four named parties have no candidates running for County Offices.

The third ballot that each voter will receive is the Non-Partisan Ballot. From this ballot will be elected a Justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan and the Probate Judge of Crawford County. Although the candidates for Supreme Court Justice are not listed by party, the ballot offers as incumbent, Clark J. Adams who was appointed to the post by Governor Williams. Charles H. King, who was nominated at the Republican State Convention and Morton A. Eden who was nominated at the State Convention of the Progressive Party. For the office of Crawford County Judge of Probate, the present Judge, Ray F. Clement is opposed by Robert F. Neafie of Grayling.

The fourth ballot is the proposed constitutional amendments for the State of Michigan. There are three proposals listed on the ballot. The first proposal proposes that the constitution of the State be changed in order to allow the introduction of narcotic drugs seized in an arrest as court evidence in a trial. Proposal number two, known as the C.I.O. proposal, proposes an amendment to the State Constitution to reapportionment of both the State Senate and Legislature on a population basis. Proposal number three is an amendment along the same order as number two, but proposes that the State Legislature be reapportioned by population while the State Senate would be established by Districts.

DAYS OF MAGIC

Late October and the first ten days in November are days of magic in Michigan Outdoors. The riot of color—reds, greens, yellows—blend to a golden hue in a farewell to a waning season . . . a golden welcome to sportsmen seeking Michigan at its best! You like to fish? You like to hunt? You're a "shutter-bug" with still or movie cameras? Michigan is waiting for you!

Fisher's Dream

Fall days on many of our lakes and streams present a fisherman's dream come true. The first frost whets the appetites of sleepy northern pike. Black bass move into shoal waters in chase of minnows. Big, fat blue gills rise to the surface, ready to strike at tiny flies. Great Lakes perch develop whopping appetites. The ten and twelve inch variety lose their summer timidity and cautiously take the bait along the entire coastline of Lake Huron and along most of Lake Michigan, too!

Far up in Lake Superior, sport trolling for lake trout brings in the big ones, but there are few to enjoy the thrills. And in many a major Michigan river the fall run of steelhead, or lake-run rainbow trout is in full swing. In the past year 7 out of 10 national prize winners in the rainbow trout division came from a single Michigan stream—the Manistee!

NEW FALL TIME
 Mort Neff's "Michigan Outdoors" television show may be seen every Thursday at 7:00 p.m. on stations WWJ-TV, Detroit and WJIM-TV, Lansing.

"BE ALERT FOR WACKY WALKERS"

Chief John A. Papendick today announced that Grayling is cooperating on the fall Pedestrian Protection program sponsored by the State Safety Commission, the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association, the Automobile Club of Michigan and many other organizations interested in safety.

According to Chief Papendick the official slogan for the safety campaign will be "BE ALERT FOR WACKY WALKERS". This points out that in at least half of the pedestrian accidents the pedestrian was more at fault than the motorist.

"By calling to the attention of motorists the amusing antics of Wacky Walkers which are dangerous it is hoped that fewer pedestrians will be hit", the Chief said.

In the fall of the year it gets dark earlier and more pedestrians are harder to see as people walk and drive to work and back. The special hazard is that the man on foot is hard to see and he doesn't know it.

In conclusion the Chief said, "The privilege of owning a driver license is a serious thing. It carries with it the special responsibility of watching out for pedestrians. Any motorist who runs down a man on foot raises the question as to whether the motorist was a safe enough driver to have been given a driver's license."

Achievement A Real
Word With 4-H'ers

About 60,000 of the happiest, busiest young people in Michigan are pausing November 8 to take a look at their past year's achievements. They are the 4-H Club members of the state who have wound up an estimated 95,000 projects and are well into winter activities.

Reaching 100,000 farm families annually, the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service sponsors the 4-H Club program. More than 11,000 adults and older boys and girls acted as volunteer leaders for almost 5,000 local clubs throughout the state.

Michigan ranked highest in number of completed projects in the Midwest last year. Michigan 4-H'ers completed more than 89 percent of their projects.

vance will include programs emphasizing the 4-H operations. Under the theme "Serving as loyal citizens through 4-H", the boys and girls in this area will spotlight their projects. Projects range from simple needlework to building houses, from turning out a cherry pie to fattening up a champion steer.

In recent years a new interest in talent has been displayed among the members. They participate in talent shows in their counties and later take part in state competition at the annual State 4-H Club Show on the Michigan State College campus, East Lansing.

Scholarships, expense-paid trips to national meetings and prizes are earned by members who take part in state-part competition. Many commercial firms provide awards for the youngsters who excel in their project work.
